The opening of the Koning Willem-Alexander tunnel during the night of 15 to 16 December 2016 changes the daily routes driven around Maastricht. What should I look out for?

Early traffic separation
Through traffic travelling in the direction of Liège or Eindhoven (A2) and traffic travelling to Maastricht or the surrounding region (N2) will be separated early into the correct lanes via new signposting. This will be done as follows:

- Traffic coming from Eindhoven or Heerlen will be separated at the Kruisdonk interchange
- Traffic coming from Liège will be separated at junction 55 of the A2 (Randwyck) well before the Europaplein interchange

Be alert! Pay attention to the signs. If you follow the signs to your destination, you will automatically be guided to the correct lane. The signs also display new names for exits. You can find out what they mean at www.a2maastricht.nl/rijroutes. Not all the local connections to the tunnel are ready yet. This means that for some local destinations you will still have to travel above ground instead of through the tunnel for now.

Taken the wrong route?
Temporary diversions will lead you back to where you want to go.

Depending on weather conditions or other circumstances, the date of the tunnel’s opening may be postponed. Visit www.a2maastricht.nl for more information.

Up-to-date travel information: www.maastrichtbereikbaar.nl.

NEW TRAFFIC SITUATION
A2 MAASTRICHT
FROM 16 DECEMBER 2016

Separation of traffic travelling south
1. Coming from Eindhoven
2. Coming from Heerlen

Separation of traffic travelling north
3. Coming from Liège

Cooperating authorities: Rijkswaterstaat (Directorate-General for Public Works and Water Management), the municipality of Maastricht, the province of Limburg, and the municipality of Meerssen.